"Grecian Bend" Poets and Song-Writers.

From the New York World, Oct. 23. It is now comparatively but a short time since what is known as the "Grecian fashion there have been almost an incrdi-Bend," was first introduced to a charitable ble umber of poems and songs written on but long-suffering public. And yet, within that short space of time, there has probable, been as much written and said about the run of the papers, informs us that he has seen over two hundred poems and songs the respective conditions. the respective candidates "for the highest on the subject. Some of the songs are office in the gift of the American people."
Political literature the last new novel, the office in the gift of the American people, Politics, literature, the last new novel, the Dinah," has had a very large sale. It reraces, the sensation drama, even religion lates the story of a maiden who dwelt in itself, none of these things can produce the excitement, the goesip and the general furore that this "Gregian Bend" has produced. Newspaper writers accuse the most | Much groenbacks and gold each year he did distinguished ladies as practising it. It is stated that Miss Susan B. Anthony has cot it," so has Miss Ann Dickinson; d that Fanny Fern is on the road. From Paris we hear that it has not been introduced, while in our country the distemper has spread from Maine to California, and the intellectual Bostonian girls are not proof against its charms. The fashion re-porter tells us that the ladies' shop windows are filled with panniers (the production of this fearful and wonderful "bend,") while glory, and that, furthermore, she practices it out of deference to the wishes of her lovone "fashionist," better informed than the rest, talks about "Ballast for Grecian Bend" eing advertised in New York store winwww. An editor remarking on the great acrease of this malady, writes: "The Grecian Bend, or Corinthian Curve, or by whatever name it may be known, is creating great havoc among our gushing young beauties, while even staid matrons are not proof against its insidious wiles. We slavfully asked a young actress who called opon us the other day, whether she could Greeian Bend. 'Of Corsican!' said she, care't you see?' One glance as she circled round the circumscribed sanetum convinced us that she had it bad. This thing must stopped. For more than a year we suffered all the terrible inflictions of the Block Crock? For mercy's sake do not compel us to endure such a long season of the Buck Crooks WHERE THE BEND CAME FROM.

Many people suppose that, as we get most of our ridiculous fashions from Paris that the "Grecian Bend" came from there also. But this is not so, as we have al ready intimated. The Grecian Bend i not known in Paris oven at the present lime. It originated at Saratoga.

From the spring of Saratoga, Where they go to qualf the water. Where the matron "shows" her saughter To the bobbing popularys, There the monster first bulged out.

A correspondent from that resort for nishes us this information on the subject: "Among the new things here the pas eason, worthy of notice, was the celebrate Mirecian Bend," known from the enter prise of a artist who illustrated it as the "Sgratoga Grecian Bend," It was introduced here by a few ladies, and was beget a little notice, when this cutter-out of black paper profiles on the piazzy at the Congress Hall was advised by a young gentleman to show it up. He took the advice and made a hit at once Two young ladies at the hotel chose to fancy that the figures meant them, and began course of persecution of the artist, which recreased his cales very much. Those who know, place his profits in a few weeks at over a thousand dollars, solely from the Grecian Rend pictures. Photographers took it up, and all places were flooded with imitations; but Schmidt, the original, had the market ahead of all competitors." Many amusing stories might be told in connection with the Bend, as practised at "One evening a motherly sort of an old lady, evidently unused to the best society. appeared in the saloon at the Congress Hall, and was quite load in her inquirie for the Grecian Bend. 'I want to see the Greeian Bend,'s was the burden of her talk All at once, as she was looking about, she saw a young lady enter with 'The Bend,' and overcome by joyful surprise, she spoke up in a squeaky voice, loud enough to attract general attention, 'Oh! there it is and subsided. The feeling of the lady 'The Bend' at bying noticed so pointedly can be imagined." HOW TO DO IT.

There may possibly be some young ladies, or old ones for that matter, perusin this article, who are anxious to become "Grecian Bandists," but desire some infor-'mution as to how that consummation Is to be reached. Let us try and enlighten them. One professor of the Grecian Bend tas given us poetical directions as to how the thirg is done. His lines run as fol-Hold your horses and I'll tell you,

Tell you simply, tell you truly,
How they did it, how they do it.
And should you ask me how I know it,
I will tell you, I have done it,

First make up a toilet hideous, Put on a hoop of small dimensions Ful on a draw of clasest tension, Ent a peak of sour green apples, Apples placked in early summer: Put a strap around your waist, Then two others down your haunches; When the highly bend you over, Draw them testily, draw them closely.

inderneath the year of said hoop. Inderneath the rear of said hoop.
And below the labering waist,
flind a coal of three-mah wire.
And let it sink out, beldly slick out;
ever this the panier hang.
And when it nebbles to and fro.

Mance behind you and observe
What a splendid thing for fir time You have not behind your curve; Let your hands then dangle idly. And flop about hose as may be; In your walk step just three inches Never mind your shoethat pinches.

Our bard then directs attention to a cat with her "back up," on the wall, and gives it as his opinion when the female and the

SOMETHING ABOUT THE PANNIER. But the 'Gorcian Bend" is not enough in order to be in the fashion. The "pan nier" must go with it. They are both, it fact, necessary to earliother. As a funny "The threeinn Bend is not comple without the passier, which is a kind of tipishing touch to top off with. While the terretan Bend alone gives the female form divine the resuldance of that graceful animal the kangarao, the panmer, super added, prevents a combination of the Imagaroe and dromedary."

The parenter is, of course, a new thing. I is, we helices, a "rump" invention, gotten up expressly and for no other purpose than o sent t ladies in getting their "back up. We had curiosity enough to examine one of these "infernal machines. It is made of tinen, and studed with moss, cotton, or hair, and paidled so as to rest easy, like and the blanket on a sore backed horse. is about exteen inches long one way, an about right or ten inches the other, and come are thicker than others, with two tapes attrebad to ife them about the body a you would a raddle on a horse. One of these permises akached to a young lady, regether with the new style of draw, is about rives them the appearance of having nake muse voing ladies look rather "forseard, in fuct, from that way. They apyear se if they had eaten an overdose to reen apples and lettermilk, and were suf tering from a fearful attack of cholic, with slight touch of toothacke and an inkling of dyspersa. Or as if they had been to a Loanding school for six months, and fed on porthing but dried apples and hot water.

Ah! young ladies, what next? They and your more your dreamer-thart
